Academic Conversations; Four-Part Series with Jeff Zwiers

Are you seeking ways to increase academic discourse and critical thinking in math, history, language arts or science? Through this unique 4 day series, learn new ways to engage students in authentic communication and increase the comprehension of content material. These strategies are not only a necessity for English learners, but they also support the diverse language needs in every classroom.

Jeff Zwiers, Ed. D
Senior researcher, Stanford University
Graduate School of Education

Sustaining Implementation

Jeff will engage participants in learning new approaches for utilizing complex text while increasing language proficiency and cognitive skills across all disciplines. Jeff has designed this training to reinforce the implementation of the instructional practices included in the book and introduce new insights on the value for English learners to produce authentic communication.

A four-part series over 2018 to 2020

- Saturday, October 27, 2018: Session ID# 121925
- Saturday, March 16, 2019
